There was ample evidence, however, that the leaders in yesterday's cam paign were not to have substantial support outside of their own ranks, regardless of the fact that Senator McKellar's resolution calling upon the judiciary committee to inquire into Mr Mellon's right to and qualifications for the office by a viva voce vote. -

No vote in the negative was heard when the resolution was adopted, but this was not because senators had become convinced of the merits of the resolution.

The vote was taken after Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, had interrupted seemingly endless debate about possible impeachment proceedings and lega questions involved, with the questions "What's the use of all this? The House is not going to impeach Secretions? Why not pass the resolution and be done with it?"

The resolution asks the Senate judiciary committee to pass on the question of whether the head of any Government department may legally hold office as such after the expiration judiciary committee to say whether Mr. Mellon may legally hold office without violation of statutes which pertain to specific private interests described as incompatible with the tenure of that office.

As Senator Reed pointed out in the debate, the resolution covered a situa-CONTINUED ON PAGE 5, COLUMN 2, including 25 from the town of

"I should say I was," Burlingame snapped and looked disgusted.

Yet you testify that you went into r house with a carload of officers sit-ng across the street, that her doorway was brightly lighted and your association with her was open and notorious? This and similar questions Burlingame explained with the statement that every one knew he was acting as Mrs. Blalock's business adviser.

"Yet those vicious underworld char-acters you tell about flocked to her fortune-telling rooms to tell her where whisky was stored, who were bootleg-gers and gamblers?" Fowler questioned "Oh, no," Burlingame replied. "But

ROOT OFFERS COURT MILLER IS PAROLED FORMULA AT GENEVA

Plan to Facilitate U. S. Entry to Tribunal.

Geneva, March 5 (A.P.) .- Elihu Root today made his first concrete move to get the United States into the world the right of the council of the league to ask the court for advisory opinions.

After this meeting, the Associated Press was informed by French circles that France already has manifested a keen desire to have America join the court as a measure of promoting peace. Nevertheless, in the interest of the league and the court there remains a question whether the United States can be given privileges which may well be demanded by other nonmember states, and even by member countries which are not members of the council.

Briand to See Colleagues.

The point of this observation is that the Root formula gives the right to the United States to exchange views with the council to determine whether an American objection to a request for an advisory opinion should be sustained It is remarked that other countries

It is remarked that other countries for example, Russis or Mexico, might ask for a similar prerogative.

M. Briand will consult with his colleagues on the Root proposal, and meanwhile an informal exchange of ideas took place tonight at a dinner which Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, gave for several members of the council and the American jurist.

The conversations which began today are seen as the result of Root's conviction that the only practical way to handle the court problem is by direct contact with the statesmen of Europe.

handle the court problem is by direct contact with the statesmen of Europe, instead of by long-distance communi-cations which Washington would have to dispatch to 40 governments. Question Never Cleared.

The United States had no representative at the conference of the world court powers at Geneva in 1926, when the American fifth reservation was virtually rejected as providing too sweep-ing and undefined a veto power over the right of the council to request advisory opinions.

The powers told the United States they did not know whether a majority or unanimous vote of the council was necessary to authorize a request for an advisory opinion but that in any event the United States would be given the same prerogatives as members of the council.

The question never has been cleared her license application and getting others to indorse the application and having introduced her at various banks "Her past didn't interest me," he insisted. "I was doing what I did for business reasons, to get information. I didn't know as much about her as you seem to know, Mr. Fowler."

"Do you mean to tell us that you took an envelope from Mrs. Bialock, which she said contained money, without ever asking her how much or seeing whether it did contain money, and for America or other powers to attempt for America or other powers to attempt of the custom is for a unanimous vote. If this becomes the accepted law of the council, the United States could always have its desired right of veto by temporarily sitting on the council. But Root has sidestepped this dangerous controversy. His formula does not involve this unsettled problem and therefore becomes, in one sense, more easy of acceptance by the powers. Mr. Root holds the idea that it is useless ing whether it did contain money, and for America or other powers to attempt to put into a formal statement any list of questions in which the United States might want to claim an interest

Scope of Reservation.

The fifth American reservation says the court shall entertain no request for advisory opinions, without the consent of the United States, in connection with disputes in which the United States has or claims an interest. It would doubtless be generally admitted that the United States has definite interests in Bernard M. Cain. Heastings, Mich., Such matters as observance of rules of international law, the prosperity and countries which purchase of countries which purchase dent. George L. Morse, Lake Odessa, Mich., will appear in court Wednesday.

Mich., will app of peoples from oppression, as well as questions connected with the Monroe Doctrine and immigration. However, there is a large number of questions which might be said to be on the border line but on which the coun cil might wish advisory opinions. Root decided that the only manner of reaching common ground was to abandon a blanket and abstract wording of the American reservation and to provide machinery for discussion of individual cases as they arise.

Should negotiations over a proposed request for opinion fall down and America still feel justified in maintaining objections, his formula provides for friendly withdrawal of America from the court. Her right of veto would the court. Her right of veto would stop right there and the council could go shead and obtain its opinion.

The object of the game was to keep the noses of the blimps into the wind, every effort being made to prevent the wind from catching any one of them with a full broadside blast. This effort to maneuver the tugging ship kept the men constantly on the go. Eddles and cross winds 'swung the balloons the men constantly on the go. Later officers became cognizant of the si'uation, and as the night wore on with no sign of abatement, the men were relieved in details of ten at a time to go to the fire, snatch a bite of food and get on warmer clothes and boots if they were without them. Efforts to dry out were useless, as practically man on the field. mud more than once.
Officers at the field were unwilling to order the blimps deflated until it became absolutely necessary, pointing out that if they ripped the bags they would lose approximately 600,000 cubic feet of valuable helium and in addition the wind might do more damage to the ripped bags than if they were kept infated. As the J-4 collapsed just where it was anchored, officers were unable to determine whether the wind had damaged the bag after the deflation. Despite the fact that helium is valued at approximately $1 a cubic foot, the officers declared the cost and scarcity of the gas had nothing with their struggle. In proof thereof they stated that if the worst came to the worst and they saw the bags were going to escape they would defiate them rather than have them flying free

"It isn't the cost at all," one of the officers stated. "That fact is not even being considered. In the service we are trained to 'hold on,' and we are going to do just that if the men hold out."

The struggle to keep the blimps earthbound was directed on the field by Lieut. Dennet, commander of the J-3; Lieut. Tyler, commander of the J-4, and Lieut. Otto Weneke, commander of the TC-10.

The J-3 and J-4 are stationed at Lakehurst, while the Army blimp's home station is Langley Field. All three balloons, together with the TC-5, were anchored at Bolling Field hangers for lighter-than-air craft Northampton, Mass., March & (A.P.).—Peace reigns in the Cool-Beans and Tiny Tim are friends.

Beans, the little Boston bull terrier, which has stayed quietly at the Coolidge home in Massasoit street here for the last four years, had his introduction to Tiny Tim, the White House chow, on the front porch of the Coolidge residence today, as Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge came back. As they paused a moment on the porch, Benns rushed up to the chow, danced tentatively about the other dog and then advanced in a gesture of friendship. A moment later the two were friends.

SLIP your tongue across your teeth. Feel that viscous, slippery coating. That is film. According to high dental authority, film is the chief source of decay and an important factor in pyorrhea. It is the cause, too, of dull teeth and those believed to be naturally discolored. To best remove it in the light of modern science a special dentifrice called Pepsodent is urged.

Film - how it destroys

Film is the great enemy of teeth and gumsa chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth and gum disorders. Film absorbs the stains from food and smoking and gives that cloudy look. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. To remove film use the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent, It acts to curdle film and easily remove it in gentle safety

THE MEXICAN REVOLT.

The simultaneous revolt of large military posts in widely separated parts of Mexico is visible proof that a powerful organization has been perfected for the purpose of overthrowing the Calles regime. The military commanders at the head of the revolt are experienced and capable men, wielding great influence with the troops. Apparently these commanders have agreed among themselves and are solidly supporting Gen. Gonzalo Escobar, of Coahuila, as their chief. The choice of the revolutionists for president has not been declared, but presumably a selection has been made, for otherwise the rivalry of aspiring military chieftains might soon wreck the revolutionary movement.

Although the object of the revolution has not been declared, there can be no doubt that the chief aim is to throw off Calles and the communist Morones, and, of course, the figurehead president, Portes Gil, and to reverse the present policy of the Mexican government in attempting to suppress religious liberty. This is made clear by the manifesto of Gov. Fausto Topete, of Sonora, suspending the religious laws and permitting the resumption of religious services by all denominations.

The declaration of religious liberty by the revolutionists may bring speedy triumph for their cause. Practically all the Mexican people are affiliated with the Catholic Church, and throughout the Mexican army there has been sullen opposition to the drastic laws directed against that church. Ever since President Calles put the laws into effect there have been rebels in the field, and the government has found all classes of society permeated with a spirit of rebellion.

Calles, who is not a military man, has taken command of the government forces as minister of war. If the troops remain loyal to the government he will probably put down the revolt; but if large bodies go over to the rebels his efforts will be hopeless. Much will depend upon the outcome of the first important battle, for in Mexico nothing succeeds like success, and nothing fails like failure in battle. The bulk of the troops will go where victory seems most

A revolution in Mexico can not succeed unless it wins over a large part of the army. With the winning of troops goes the winning of supplies and arms, which can not be imported in quantities large enough to maintain a formidable

As the United States is on friendly terms with the Mexican government it is to be expected that no change will be made in the existing rule, which permits arms to go to the government but denies them to others. If the revolutionists should succeed in establishing a de facto government the attitude of the United States might change, as it did in 1910, when the United States turned thumbs down on Porfirio Diaz and thereby insured the success of Francisco Madero.

It is quite possible that President Hoover will be compelled to make momentous decisions in regard to Mexico within the next few days.

MR. HOOVER AND THE PRESS.

President Hoover will be as free and frank with newspaper correspondents as his position will permit. There will be the customary conferences twice each week, and his office will be open at any time to newspaper men who have questions to ask. The rule against ing the President directly or indirectly till hold for the time being, but it is the Presdent's purpose to make modifications, and with this in view he will confer with a committee of newspaper men within the next few

Why should not the absurd rule against quotation, direct or indirect, be discarded with new administration? It fools no one.

"sources close to the administration report" appear in news columns, every one knows that the correspondent, if reliable, is not retailing idle rumor, but is giving information furnished by the President himself.

Mr. Hoover is not a politician. He appreciates fully the value of candor in business. While precautions must be taken in regard to all expressions by the President, it may be assumed that Mr. Hoover will be uncommonly frank in dealing with the press.

Senate Republicans yesterday elected James E. Watson, of Indiana, as their leader. He becomes the field marshal of the party forces in control of Congress. The major strategy of the Republican party, so far as Congress is concerned, will be in the hands of Senator Watson-and it could not be in more competent hands.

The fortunes of the Republican party depend upon teamwork between the White House and the Capitol. A Republican President, by making fatal mistakes, could discredit a most efficient Republican Congress: and everybody knows that unless a President is ably and loyally supported by his party in Congress he will come to grief, no matter how brilliant he may be.

Some callow commentators have made much of the fact that Senator Watson strongly opposed Mr. Hoover in the Indiana primary and was his opponent in the national convention. They assume that President Hoover may have preferred to see some one else chosen as leader of the party in the Senate. They forgot that Senator Watson immediately accepted the verdict of the Kansas City convention and worked for Hoover's election. "In politics there are no yesterdays," is one of Senator Watson's sayings. He fights valiantly, but without personal animus, and his first rule is to be a Republican, and stand by the party's commander in chief, whoever he may be.

It is safe to say that President Hoover is well pleased with the selection of Senator Watson as Senate leader. He could not have a more loyal lieutenant than Mr. Watson will be in the Senate. Mr. Hoover's inaugural declaration of fidelity to the Republican platform is full assurance that the White House will cooperate with the party in power in Congress. Thus the new administration begins under the most favorable auspices, and the party will soon complete the personnel of its leadership by electing Nicholas Longworth Speaker and John Q. Tilson leader of the party in the House.

LET DOGBERRY LOOK TO IT.

The Senate acted yesterday with commendable promptness in confirming the eight nominees for Cabinet posts whose names were submitted by President Hoover. Then the Senate, with fidelity to its modern rule of intermeddling with other departments, entered into a long discussion as to the right of Mr. Mellon to serve as Secretary of the Treasury without being renominated and confirmed. There was a lot of schoolboy talk of "impeachment" and "high crimes and misdemeanors," and a resolution was adopted asking the all-wise committee on the judiciary, headed by that profound constitutional lawyer, Mr. Norris, of Nebraska, to inquire into the subject and re-

It was too bad that some one in the Senate did not call attention to the fact that Frank B. Kellogg is serving as Secretary of State after the expiration of Mr. Coolidge's term. Why not impeach or indict him?

Here is a subject that makes a heavy draft upon the lore of the Dogberry who presides over the Senate judiciary committee.

BUILD UP THE WEST.

More than 100 years ago landowners of the Atlantic Coast States were making serious objection to the development of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys under the homestead law They feared that the competition of new lands would create a surplus of agricultural products and thus force prices down and ruin the market. It is easy today to criticize their lack of vision, and yet the same cry, in slightly modified form, has been raised repeatedly in the Congress that has just ended Twenty-five years ago, President Roosevelt, in his message to Congress, declared that "the reclamation and settlement of the arid lands will enrich every portion of our country, just as the settlement of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys brought prosperity to the Atlantic States." Congress followed his advice and passed the reclamation act, which has resulted in bringing approximately 3,000,000 acres of arid land under cultivation. Because the country is now faced with a serious problem of overproduction in several staple crops. there is a general belief that the reclamation program should be halted until consumption has again caught up with agricultural output. Such a view is a hasty conclusion that is in no way based on the facts. The problem was brought before Congress last week by Representative Addison T. Smith, who pointed out that less than 1 per cent of farm commodities raised in the United States come from Government reclamation projects. Even this small amount does not aggravate the problem of overproduction, because 90 per cent of reclamation-project crops are consumed locally, and only a small percentage of the reclaimed land is devoted to crops of which there is a surplus. A recent study of the situation by B. E. Stoutmeyer, district counsel of the Bureau of Reclamation, resulted in the statement: "When these irrigation projects finally reach a stage of abundant production the class of products grown is so different from the prevailing staple farm products of which we have a surplus that the general effect of the irrigation development is to improve the markets for our staple farm products of the rainfall sections rather than to impair such markets." The three great crops which suffer most from overproduction are wheat, corn and cotton. On the other hand, there are many farm products which the United States now imports. It is estimated that $800,000,000 is spent in foreign countries each year ar crops that could be produced on United Si Most of the products of the reclamation projects are in this class. One outstanding example is sugar, which is produced in large quantities on reclamation lands. Beef, dairy oducts, wool, alfalfa and clover seed, and

"it is represented in White House circles," or | many other products in which farmers in the arid sections are specializing, are among the

> Furthermore, the projects undertaken by the - Reclamation Bureau are opening little new land to cultivation. All of the new projects undertaken in recent years have been designed to relieve settlers already on the land, who have built homes and partially developed their farms, but have been seriously handicapped by lack of water. In many of these sections agriculture is absolutely necessary to permit development of mining and similar industries.

> Congress will reassemble within a few weeks to work out a plan for agricultural relief. In the deliberations the reclamation of arid sections should not be confused with the problem of surplus staple crops. It is to the interest of the country as a whole that the West be allowed to develop, not only to enable it to supply food products now produced in no other part of the country, but to encourage growth of a flourishing population that can help to absorb the staple farm products of the East, Middle West and South.

> An Ohio convict, paroled, returns to civil life with a $7,000 bank roll earned by writing stories, and Mr. Coolidge, it develops, has contracts for magazine articles totaling many thousands of dollars. Young men contemplating literary carers will do well to arrange to serve terms in the pen or the White House.

> Cambridge scientists and scholars have evolved a simplified international language, in which English is the basic tongue, involving a vocabulary of only 500 words. It will sound like American.

WHAT THE PRESS THINKS

The Old American Faith. New York Herald Tribune (Rep.): Yesterday's inaugural address was really a condensed embodiment of the President's political philosophy as outlined by him in the last campaign. Big Tariff Struggle Coming.

New York World (Dem.): When President Hoover in his inaugural address referred to the coming special session of Congress he declared that "further agricultural relief and limited changes in the tariff can not, in justice to our farmers, our labor and our manufacturers, be postponed." . By "limited" tariff revision Mr. Hoover presumably has in mind the program recently championed by various other leaders of his party: that is a further extension of the duties on agricultural products and a readjustment of the rates on manufactured goods only in cases where conditions have materially changed since the enactment of the existing law.

If Mr. Hoover succeeds in holding the revision within these narrow limits he will have achieved what no other President has accomplished within the memory of the present generation. For weeks plans have been pre paring for a mighty drive for a general up-

"He Stumbles and Falters."

Baltimore Sun (Dem.): The inaugural address belongs in the second or third grade of such speeches, and for a very simple reason. The new President of the United States shows again that he is not one who naturally and instinctively concerns himself with the deen human emotions, and with the ideas and aspirations that grow out of the common life of a people and evolve themselves into mighty movements Mr. Hoover's life has had to do with things.

And therefore when he stands forth to speak to and for a great people on one of those days when they drop the doing of things to take stock of themselves and to turn their vision into the long future, he stumbles and falters. He is in a foreign land, a strange world. The high, prophetic quality with which Lincoln and Wilson could turn a nation's thought into the vistas their own brooding had discovered is entirely beyond Mr. Hoover.

Practical Minded.

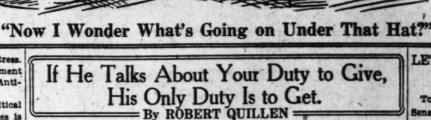

Philadelphia Public Ledger (Rep.): It was typical of this practical-minded man that he should devote the chief portion of his inaugural address to the immediate tasks in hand the pressing national problems which demand as prompt as possible solutin.

Recgnizing that "undoubted abuses" have grown up under the eighteenth amendment," President Hoover speaks sharply of the failure of some States to accept their responsibility for concurrent enforcement and of some officials to fulfill their oath of office. But "there would be little traffic in illegal liquor if only criminals patronized it. The restraint of the words in which Mr. Hoover earnestly appeals to "men and women of good will, who are not unmindful of the responsibilities of good citizenship." to assist enforcement by obedience to the law will not please extremists among the drys. Properly viewed in relation to Mr. Hoover's definite pronouncements during the presidential campaign and his reaffirmation now that "regulation of private enterprise and not Government ownership or operation is the course rightly to be pursued." there is nothing in his latest statement that should be disturbing to business and industry.

Concessions to Politics.

New York Times (Dem.): As a literary composition President Hoover's inaugural address is somewhat disappointing. There is little in it to cause a quickening of spirit. It has no central animating theme which the speaker sought to get before the country as the motive and driving power of his administration. The whole makes something of the impression of a cross between one of Mr. Hoover's campaign speeches, which were seldom thrilling, and a presidential message

Turning to the substance, it is easy to identify two positions which President Hoover

C OME months ago I wrote something in criticism of sons and daughters who neglect their parents or give them charity and take away their freedom and self-respect.

An unhappy young woman who endures unwilling martyrdom wrote remind me that all moot questions have two sides. Certainly this one is no exception.

Age does not change human nature, and parents who are petted too much become spoiled as children do.

Because they receive much they begin to think themselves entitled to everything, and their selfishness gives no thought to the pleasure or invenience of those who so dutifully serve them. Nor are they content to sit with folded hands and bestow reluctant yords of approval while their benefactors fetch and carry for them and make anxious effort to avoid criticism.

They not only get service by gorging themselves with self-pity and holding forth on the subject of "duty," but they go further and assume that a proper sense of duty requires sons and daughters to surrender their own opinions and suppress their individuality and do the will of Treasury. Where, may I ask, their parents as they did in childhood. Son must not be too good to his wife, for that would hurt mother's that important office who de eelings, and daughter must not train her children ence in the inaugural address to reg-them, for that would break mother's heart. There are such cases-many thousands of them-as there are thousands of "old maids" who have given up all thought of a normal life because "mother can't get along" without them. Parents are vain and selfish creatures, but these faults do not result posed Government ownership and Govfrom the childishness of age. Young parents are equally blinded by self, and endeavor to fashion speeches has specifically come out in heir child in their own image and suppress its individuality.

They know themselves imperfect and yet they establish themselves regulation. Mr. Hoover has never been is models and say to the child. "Become in all ways as we are." I do not mean to intimate that the child should grow as a weed does

But common sense and common justice demand that the child be given opportunity to be itself-to develop according to its own nature. which is unlike any other.

To warp the child's nature to make it match that of its parents is no ess cruel than warping its body would be. And to use "love" and "duty" as weapons to deprive sons and daugh

The whole Senate staff, from the secretary down to the smallest page, were at Union Station to see the for-mer Vice President off and just before

as Vice President,

mer Vice President off and just before the train departed three rousing cheers were given for him and Mrs. Dawes. The cheers resounded in the concourse as the Vice President and Second Lady of yesterday passed through the iron ticket gate to their train.

Tears stood in the general's eyes as he looked down upon the smallest of the pages handing Mrs. Dawes a white, gaily ribboned box in which lay a corsage of orchids and heard him tell her that "the boys will miss you." Touched deeply by the manifestation of affection, the former fice President shook hands all around and told them all he would always remember their kindnesses.

Just before he went to his train, Gen. Dawes reached down into the pocket of his topcoat and handed Ar-thur Martin, the negro waiter who attended to his wants at the Capitol, lieved the steel industry to be in a very prosperous condition.

"Orders are plentiful," he said, "and it looks propitious for a good year. In the Bethlehem company the March and April orders are very heavy and promise to make this our best year."

Mr. Schwab said he spent his time abroad on the French and Italian

A friend of Mrs. Dawes drew her from the gathering and told her "to just look at the faces of those boys, how happy they are."
"Oh, yes," replied Mrs. Dawes simply, "they do like him."
Mr. and Mrs. Dawes made the trip home alone, except for some servants who had been brought to Washington with them when Dawes became Vice President. The general's secretary, E. Ross Bartley, will remain in Washington for a few days to wind up his chief's ton for a few days to wind up his chief's business affairs here. Shortly Mr. Dawes will go to the West Indies to head a commission which has been asked to stabilize the finances of the Dominicar

Evanston, Ill., March 5 (A.P.) .- There will be no public demonstration when Charles G. Dawes returns to his home

The Chamber of Commerce decided the former Vice President "would not wish a demonstration." Instead Mr. Dawes will be given a greeting signed by Mayor Charles H. Bartlett and Wal-ter Dill Scott, president of Northwest-ern University.

Cork Fire Damages Ford Plant. Cork, Irish Free State, March 5 (A.P.) the safety of the Ford Motor Fa

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite epecifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and Houdaille shock absorbers used on the new Ford.

Though the Ford tires are 30 x 4.50 in size, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel spoke wheels.

Another unusual feature of the new Ford tires is the provision for balancing the tire assembly. Every tire is marked on the sidewall with a red spot to show where the valve stem should be when the tube is inserted. This is just a little thing, but it assures a uniformly high standard of tire performance at all speeds.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the side-walls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent the possibility of premature wear of

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly wellequipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

Few Stocks Retain Early Gains: Market Mostly Weak at Closing.

COPPERS MOVE UPWARD

New York, March 5 (A.P.) .- High call money rates and increasing revolutionary disturbances in Mexico proved too great an obstacle for speculators for the advance in today's stock market, and prices broke sharply after a midday flurry of buying had carried a score of the coppers and rails into new high ground. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 6 points in the active issues, and 7 to 10 points in a few specialities.

issues, and 7 to 10 points in a few specialties. A sprinkling of coppers, rails and specialties retained part of their early gains.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent, advanced to 9 and thence to 10 as banks called between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 in this. Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptance rates held firm around the year's high levels. The Federal income tax payments and the quarterly Treasury financing due next week, and a steady spring expansion in commercial and agricultural borrowings, bankers see little hope of any early relaxation in agricultural borrowings, bankers see little hope of any early relaxation in money rates.

One of the principal business developments of the day was the announcement, after the close of the market, that stockholders of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co, would be given the right to subscribe for two shares of additional common at $55 a share for every five shares now held, the proceeds to be used to retire $103,803,000 in 6 per cent first mortgage bonds, and for other corporate purposes.

Short Flurry in Rails.

Widespread circulation of uncon-firmed rumors that directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank recently voted to increase the rediscount rate to 6 per cent but were overruled by the Federal Reserve Board on the ground that such action would inter-fere with March Treasury financing plans, also had a disturbing effect on sentiment.

The drop of $56.618,000 in stock exchange member loans was about in line with Wall street's expectations and corresponded closely to the reduction in Federal Reserve borrowings, but the total at the end of the month was still 54 per cent above a year ago.

R alls enjoyed a temporary flurry of atlantic presumably influenced by the excellent automatical automatical constitution. strength in today's market on buying presumably influenced by the excellent character of current earnings and traffic reports and possibly by hopes of an early favorable decision by the United States Supreme Court in the St. Louis & O'Fallon valuation case. New Peak prices for the year, or longer, were registered by Erie common, Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Seaboard Air Line common and preferred, Baltimore & Ohio and a few others.

Coppers moved forward under the leadership of Anaconda, which advanced about 7 points to a new high at 159% and closed within a point of the top. Chile jumped 7 points to a new high at 117 and Kennecott (new) attained a new peak at 96% and then attained a new peak at 96% and then eased to 94, up 1 point net. American Smetting, American Metals and Howe Sound, all of which have Mexican properties, closed 1 to 2½ points lower.

High Priced Specialties Hit.

High priced specialties were among the hardest hit in the late selling movement. Radio (old atock) broke from an early high of 398 to 381 and then snapped back to 388, off 6 points net, and the new stock closed 1½ points lower at 77½. Victor Talking Machine certificates advanced nearly 4 points to within a fraction of the year's high on the announcement that sufficient Victor stock had been deposited to Victor stock had been deposited to make the merger with Radio effective. Western Union advanced 9½ points to Western Union advanced 9½ points to within a fraction of the year's high, but lost 2½ points of its gain.

Adams Express broke 10 points on one sale. Johns Manville and Montgomery Ward were heavily sold on the reported illness of Theodore F. Merseles, the former closing 5¾ points lower and the later 2¾. American & Foreign Power. Commonwealth Power, Curtiss Aero, Dupont, Electric Auto Lite, National Cash Register and Wright Aero sold down 3 to nearly 9 points.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet and coloriess, Sterling Cables holding steady around $4.85 7-82.

Establishment of the lowest levels in

Establishment of the lowest levels in eight years by refined sugar prices, a drop of more than 2 cents a bushel in wheat prices and a rally of $2 to nearly $2.50 in cotton were the chief features in the commodity markets.

fall went hand in hand with evidence that storage room here for grain has become filled almost to the limit, and that offerings of wheat to be transferred to Chicago from terminal markets Southwest are as futile as carrying coals to Newcastle.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy. 2¼ cents to 2½ cents net lower. Corn finished % cent to 1 cent down, oats % cent to 1 cent off. and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25 cents.

On top of news today that offerings of wheat to come here from the Southwest had met with no acceptance, word was received that the world's wheat available supply has increased 1.500.000 bushels in the last week, and is now 390.501.000 bushels, against 308.309.000 bushels ayear ago. Continued attention was also being given today to big domestic reserve holdings of wheat on farms, as well as to enlargements of late in the United States wheat visible supply Moreover, a leading British authority asserted today that even without the United States surplus the world supply of wheat is about equal to all requirements, and this too after allowing for a fair increase of farm reserves and for end-of-season carry over 41. RISE IN ANACONDA 7S FEATURES BOND LIST

Gain of 12 Points, to New High of 245, Marks Otherwise Dull Trading.

MOST FOREIGNERS STEADY

New York, March 5 (A.P.) -Anacond Copper convertible 7s today furnished fireworks for an otherwise dull nd market, with a spectacular adance of more than 12 points to a new high record for all time at above

There was considerable selling in the eneral list, and Mexican bonds coninued ti slide into now low territory. Sharp advances in railroad stocks failed to stimulate the rails, and a half a dozen issues sold at the year's lowest figures. Money continued firm. The advance in Anaconda 7s preceded the announcement by the directors that all outstanding bonds would be retired with funds received from the sale of additional common stock. The 6s touched 105, their redemption price, but closed fractionally lower. Chile Copper 5s were heavy.

The Allerhany Corporation 5s were

The Alleghany Corporation 5s were steady at around $04 on a turnover of $350,000, but American International 54s yielded fractionally. National Dairy Products 54s touched a new low and National Radistor slumped 2 points on light trading.

red National Radietor slumped 2 points on light trading.
Atchison convertible 4½s were heavily traded in, $332,000 changing hands at a fractionally higher level, and 5t. Paul adjustment 5s held firm on a turnover of $160,000. New lows were registered by St. Paul 5s of 1975, which sagged a point; Central Pacific guaranteed 5s. Boston & Maine 5s. Erie consolidated extended 7s. Nickel Plate 4½s and Frisco prior lien 4s A all off fractionally.

Seiling pressure was exerted against some of speculative utilities, Public Service of New Jersey slipping back 5 noints and International Telephone 4½ fractionally. Postal Telegraph 5s declined to a new low for 1929, at 91½. Pacific Power & Light refunding 5s and Utilities Power & Light 5½ were among the few strong spots.

Losses in Mexican bonds were only fractional. Flat 7s with warrants broke more than 3 points to a new low for the year, at 152. The rest of the foreign list was steady.

United States Government obligations turned heavy.

One month after Ulysses S. Grant had been inaugurated in 1869, our firm started business in a modest way in the city of Washington. In this era of reconstruction, expansion and industrial growth, the policy of our founders brought immediate success. It has continued unbroken through every successive periodthrough wars and peace, panic and prosperity.

With the inauguration of Herbert Hoover, an era of commercial cooperation and unified prosperity looms on the horizon-and we look forward to even greater success in our own special field, the marketing of First Mortgage Notes on approved income-producing property in the nation's capital.

From 1869 to 1929 many changes have come in Washington, as in the Nation—but the policy established by our founders has enabled us to make a continuous record-nearly sixty years of unfailing interest returned on the 6% First Mortgage Notes we sell, without a single loss to any investor.

David H, Blair to Be Speaker.

David H. Blair, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the United States, will be guest speaker on the Halsey, Stuart & Co. radio program tomorrow night. The talk, which will be on "Federal Taxes and Their Administration," should prove of wide interest in view of the approach of the final dave for filing income tax returns. Commissioner Blair has been head of the tax-gathering forces of the Government since 1921.

Market Value of Stocks Shrinks.

The market value of 100 representative common stock issues declined 6613.149,000, or 1.76 per cent in February, according to the monthly compilation of Frazier, Jelke & Co. The 100 issues, which consisted of 349.—689.512 sharer at the end of February, as compared with 347,425.571 shares at the end of January, were appraised at 234,059,042,000 on February 28, compared with 434,672,186,000 on January 31, and $32,152,458,000 at the close of 1928.

Any considerable improvement in the general bond market, as well as any important rise in the volume of new issues offered, must await the solution of the present credit situation, according to the monthly bond review of Lawrence Stern & Co. The review said that the general bond market was consistently dull in February, the volume of new financing aggregating $394,-334,614, the lowest level for that month in recent years.

Some sharp breaks also developed in the aviation group. Wright Aeronautical (new) and Sikorsky each fell more than 6 points and Aviation Corporation of America 10. Fokker moved into new high ground and Fairchild closed nearly 2 points higher, presum-ably on the announcement of a new $200,000,000 aviation holding company headed by the president of the Fair-child concern.

Marked irregularity also developed in the merchandising and mail-order groups. Heavy buying of American Department Stores, which sold at the year's high price of 29, was based on merger reports. National Family Stores, Neisner, J. C. Penney and Isaac Silver issues were heavy. Fandango Corporation was heavily bought, touch-ing a new high at 10 on reports that stockholders should shortly receive rights to subscribe for stock of a new rights to subscribe for stock of a new company to manufacture removable automobile upholstery.

Oils developed few points of interest, establishment of a new high by Crystal Oil Reining and a gain of 2% points in Continental being offset by a 2-point drop in Vacuum.

Trans-Lux was bid up to a new high at 31 on reports that the company had closed 104 new contracts last month. New high prices also were registered by Evans Wallower prefererd, Haygart issues, Republic Brass A, Safe-T-State and Westvaco, while American Chain, Boehler Die Casting and several others registered new lows.

EGGS—Average receipts, 38; hennery, 40@42. New York, March 5 (A.P.) .- The line of least resistance in today's curb market was downward. Although at least score individual issues were pushed into new high ground during the day. the general list turned reactionary on the raising of the call-money rate from 8 to 10 per cent and growing uneasiness over the Mexican situation.

Public utilities were again subjected to selling pressure, particularly those with a low-yield basis. Electric Bond & Share (old stock) broke 9 points and rallied 2. American Super Power A and B lost 3% and 6% points, respectively, and American & Foreign Power-warrants, United Gas Improvement and some of the other recent favorites lost

Examine Your Investment Holdings

Now -

NOW is the time when you should carefully examine your list of investment holdings and determine their positions. Each stock or bond should be thoroughly analyzed and the following essentials

1. Is your invested capital earning as much as it

2. What is the trend of values behind your securities?

3. Are earnings increasing or are they falling off?

4. Are you in a position to keep in constant close touch with the ever-changing conditions affecting the companies; their position in industry, general economic and financial conditions, etc.?

Our Statistical Department has the latest authoritative information on practically every investment security and will be glad to examine and analyze your list of investment holdings without any obligation. Of course, all information submitted will be treated as strictly confidential. A circular describing in detail our statistical service and its value to you in investment analysis will be sent on request.

To have a clear skin, glowing complexion, energy, vitality and the blessing of good health, you must keep your blood in good condition. You owe it to yourself. Your friends expect it of you.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low, due generally to a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to re-store the red-blood-cells to normal.

You're missing something if you don't hear "FORHAN'S SONG SHOP" Thursday night at 7. Sta. WRC.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the bands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums . . . the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the

He wondered afterward how it was that he, in general so unobservant of such details, had noticed that she had resumed the modest stone; and concluded that it was because of Judith's ridiculous cross-examination about the Judith. A sudden irritation filled Boyne at the thought of what, unknown to Mrs. Sellars, peered and grimaced behind her legal counselor. It was as if Mr. Dobree had unconsciously evoked for him some tragic allegory of Judith's future.

"Where's your friend? Are we waiting for him?" Boyne's question sounded abrupt in his own ears, but was received by Mrs. Sellars with her usual equanimity.

his odd reluctance to look forwars to

"Chucked you for a party at the 'Palace.' I suppose? I'm glad he didn't drag you up there to dine with him."

"No; I don't think he's giving a party—or going to one. He had letters to write; and he said he was tired."

This seemed to dispose of the matter and Boyne, still faintly disturbed, followed his betrothed to the diningtable, at which of late he had so seldom sat alone with her.

"Don't you like it better like this?" she saked, smilling at him across the bowl of wild roses which stood between them.

It was indeed uncommonly pleasant in the west glad to be alone with her, and that the knowledge put her and that the knowledge put her at her ease, and made her want her at her ease, and made her want hat mood in him. There was something pathetic in the proud creature's eagerness to be exactly what he wished her to be.

"Judith was looking her very prettiest today, wasn'f she? Mr. Dobree was so much struck by her," she said softly, after a silence.

It was as if she had flung a boulder into the very middle of the garden-plot she had just been at such pains to lay sout. Boyne met the remark with an exact asperated laugh.

If your friend is so dotty about Judith, he'd better ask her to marry him. He's rich. isn't he? His money might be an inducement—who knows?"

"Marry her? Mary Judith? Mr.

"Why not?" he continued. "As the poor child is situated money is a big a hypocrite about it? If she's to fight her parents and keep the children together, she'll need cash and a big pile of it, and a clever lawyer to maneuver for her, too. I call it an ideal arrangement."

Mrs. Sellars waited a little before answering; then she said, "I don't see how the biggest fortune and the cleverest lawyer in the world could keep the wheaters from ordering their children home the day they choose to. But I'm

"If I intervened in any way between I'm lobree and Judith I don't think he'd thank you for putting me up to it."

"Why what do you mean?"

"Why what do you mean?"

"If you don't know what I mean I can only suppose you didn't notice how has a was loking at the child this after-noon, before you carried him off for a walk."

Mrs. Sellars fell silent again. He saw the faint lines of perplexity weaving their net over her face, and reflected that when a woman is no longer young the can preserve her air of freshness only in the intervals of feeling. "It's too bad," he thought, vexed with himself for having upset the delicate ballance of her serenity. But now she was amiling again, a little painfully.

"Looking at her—looking at her how?"

"Well—as I've told you."

"Well—as I've told you."

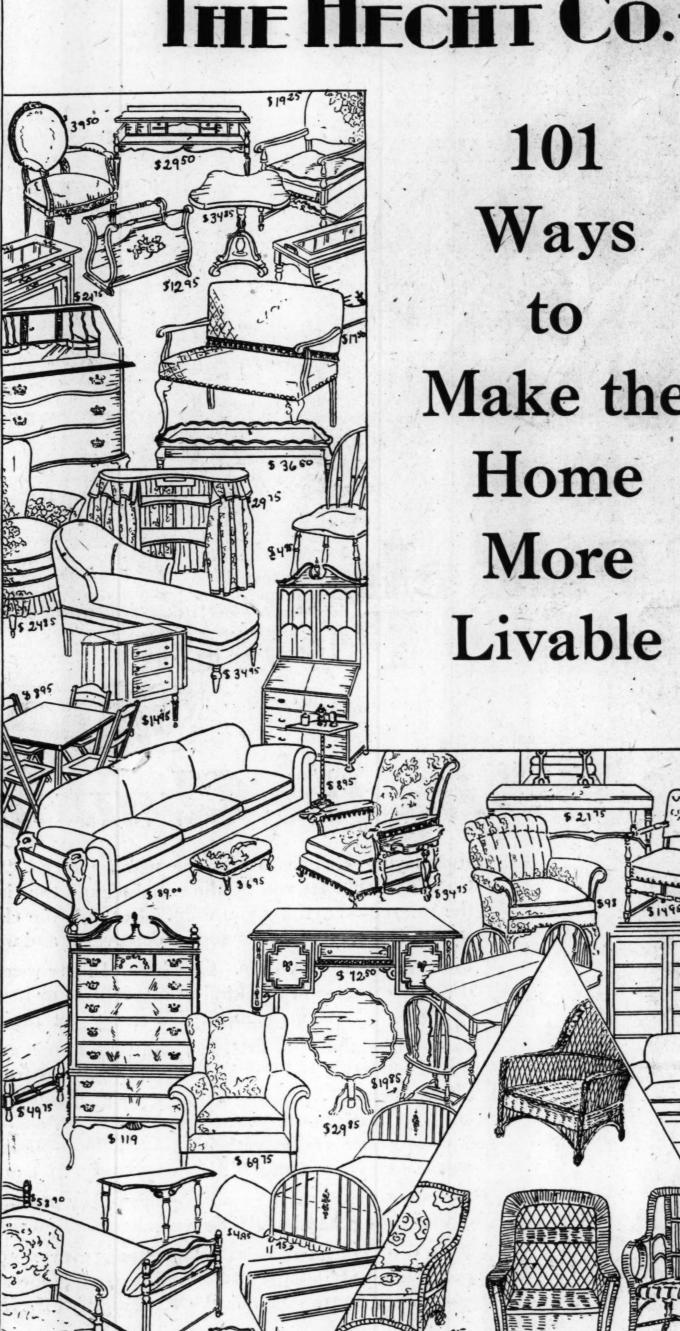

The smile persisted. "I certainly didn't see anything like that. And neither did I carry him off for a walk;

EAGLES BEAT GRAYS; EVEN SERIES

Skinker Five Winner, 26-25, Before Capacity Crowd.

I N one of the greatest games ever played in the Congress Auditorium the Skinker Eagles evened the series with the United Typewriter Grays by the narrowest of margins, 26 to 25. The fans that braved the elements last night to witness this contest were well rewarded. Neither team at any stage held a safe lead, and the final score was always in doubt.

The Eagles, with their backs to the wall, fought a hard game, although at times ragged. At these stages Jack Faber was always the steadying influnce. Both teams started off cautiou y, foul goals by Faber and Buscher epresenting seven minutes' fierce mill-ng. Forney, of the Grays, then broke ice from the field with a beautiful the ice from the field with a beautiful side-court filp. Ralph Bennie, spearhead of the Eagles' attack in this half, then got busy, and the Eagles ran up a 12-to-5 lead. But the Grays were not through. A determined rally, with field goals by Peck and Buscher, and a foul by MacDonald put their team back in the running at half time on the about on a 12-10 acore. the short end of a 12-10 score.

At this stage, the play became fast and furious. A side court flip by Mac-Donald sent the Grays into a lead, 22-21, but Joe Sweeney gave the Eagles the lead again with a long shot. With three minutes left to play, Buscher evened the score with a foul toss, and on this play Bennie left the game on personal fouls. This turned out to be a real "break" for the Eagles, though. Krumm was sent as the substitute, and on the very first tap-off he sneaked down the floor to take a pass from Paber and convert his efforts into a field and a foul goal. This proved to be the margin of victory. The result of this game makes a third game neces-

Carolina State College rose to its greatest heights of basket ball history tonight to defeat a great Duke University Quintet. 44 to 35, in the final round of the Southern Conference championship tournament.

Led by Goodwin, point-a-minute center, the Raleigh Collegians finally subdued the Demons from Durham in a game that held plenty of thrills and was in doubt until the closing minutes. The big pivot man of the Red Team from the sandhill country caged 14 points in all for high-scoring honors, while Haar, a forward, furnished a great offensive spark in sending five baskets over for telling results.

Croson, big blond center of Duke, kept his team in the thick of the game with an even dozen points. He was polson on short shots, Werber and Farley feeding the ball to him at every opening.

There is a possibility, athletic officials at the Hilltop believe, that some clever material may be brought to light that would prove helpful in the intercollegiate championships to be held at State College, Pa., March 22 and 23.

Careful consideration also is expected on an offer made by the Garden for a controlling interest in the New York Giants. Bridge Play Over Radio Is Explained

Experts of Cleveland, Ohio, and Work and Whitehead Make Up the Table in Seventeenth Game of Series Told Over WRC.

Two prominent Cleveland, Ohio Bridge players and teachers, Mrs. Charotte Cotton Davis and Mr. Edward C Wolfe, made up the table with Mr. Whitehead and Mr. Work for the sevemteenth of this season's Radio Bridge Games, broadcast from Station WRC. The deal gave Mr. Wolfe, as South, the Dealer, this unusual hand: Spades, A. K. J; Hearts, A. K. 2; Diamonds, J, 8, 7, 5, 2; Clubs, 8, 4. Here was the rare combination of two defenseless suits and two strong suits, yet with neither of the latter long enough to bid. Neither could Mr. Wolfe afford to pass, as passing with such great strength might result in passing out a deal which would produce game. His partner might have strength enough to insure game at No Trump, and yet not have a bid in the Third Hand posi-tion after a Dealer's pass. Had Mr. Wolfe held a fourth Spade or Heart the suit-bid would have been much sounder than a No Trump; but as it No Trump on what was practically a two-suiter, with the third suit, Diads containing only a long distan

Mr. Work, West, holding Spades, Q. 8, 2; Hearts, J. 3; Diamonds, A, K Q. 10, 9; Clubs, K, 6, 3; passed his eighty honors in Diamonds, although he had ample strength to bid that suit. The principle that supported his pass is that when sitting over a No Trump, and consequently assured of the lead if the No Trump becomes the contract, it is better to pass and if possible defeat the contract, than it is to bid a Minor which may steer the No Trumper and his partner into a Major suit that would work more advantageously than the No Trump. As a general rule, Mr. Work said, "Do not bid when sitting over a No Trump unless within two tricks of game. A player is a bit too sanguine when he himself is strong and has a No Trump against him. Consequently, at a love score the No Trump should not be overcalled with less than eight tricks with a Major suit, or nine tricks with a Minor."

Minor."

Mr. Whitehead, North, also passed. He held: Spades, 7, 6, 5; Hearts, 8, 7, 5; Diamonds, 6, 3; Clubs, A, Q, 7, 5, 2. To have bid two Clubs would have shown a desire to rescue the No Trump and have announced lack of help for it. While North's hand was very far from assuring a game for his side at No Trump, still his Club length and strength might be just what his partner needed. Furthermore, there was as much chance for game at No Trumps as at Clubs, as there are very few combined hands which will make eleven tricks with a Minor the trump, that will fall to make nine tricks at No Trump.

Trump.

Mrs. Davis, East, also passed. Her hand was: Spades, 10, 9, 4, 3; Hearts, Q., 10, 9, 6, 4; Diamonds, 4; Clubs, J, 10, 9.

Mr. Wolfe, South, thus became Declarer with his contract one No Trump.

Mr. Work, West, opened his Ace of Diamonds, thus calling for his partner's highest card of the suit, which should enable him to place the Ortstanding Diamonds. If his partner, East, happened to have the Jack, Mr. Work was most anxious to have it played on the first trick. Aces are led against No.

Trump contracts when the leader has sufficient length and strength in the suit to want his partner to play the highest card he may have of it, regardless of what that card may happen to be.

From Mr. Whitehead's hand, which became Dummy, Mr. Wolfe, Declarer, played the 3 of Diamonds. Mrs. Davis, East, played her only Diamond, the 4 spot: Mr. Wolfe, South, played the 5, a false card, to conceal the position of the 2. Thus he kept from Mr. Work, for the time being, the fact that he held five Diamonds to the Jack. The deuce of Diamonds might have been in Mrs. Davis' hand, as her play of the 4 spot might have been the higher of two of the suit in her hand.

Mr. Work continued with the King of Diamonds; Dummy played the 6; Mrs. Wolfe discarded the 6 of Hearts, the highest Heart that she could safely Wolfe discarded the 6 of Hearts, the highest Heart that she could safely spare. Mrs. Davis hoped that Mr. Work would be able to read the 6 as not being the lowest Heart she held; in which case he would interpret it as a call for the lead of the Heart suit. To this trick Mr. Wolfe played the 2 of Diamonds.

At this point Mr. Work realized that if he continued with Diamonds he would set up the Jack in Declarer's hand, which might give Declarer the one trick needed for game; whereas if Mr. Work discontinued leading Diamonds, he could prevent Declarer from making a trick in that suit.

Accordingly, Mr. Work, reading his partner's Heart discard as an encouraging card, switched to Hearts, leading his highest, the Jack. Dummy played the 5; Mrs. Davis the 4, thus confirming her signal. Mr. Wolfe, Declarer, falsecarded the Ace.

Mr. Wolfe saw his only chance for carded the Ace.

Mr. Wolfe saw his only chance for game in an even 3-3 division of the butstanding Clubs, with the King in Mr. Work's, West's, hand. Hoping for this favorable break, Mr. Wolfe led the 3 of Clubs. Mr. Work played the 3; Dummy the 2; Mrs. Davis the 9.

Mrs. Davis at once led the Queen of Hearts, to establish the suit, hoping that if the King fell, her partner would hold a third Heart to lead to her when he had a chance, as she had no side entry. Mr. Wolfe, Declarer, won with his King; Mr. Work played the 3; Dummy the 7.

his King; Mr. Work played the 3; Dummy the 7.

Mr. Wolfe continued his Clubs with the 4 spot. Mr. Work played the 6; Dummy finessed the Queen; Mrs. Davis played the 10. Dummy continued with the Ace of Clubs: Mrs. Davis played the Jack; Mr. Wolfe discarded the 7 of Diamonds; Mr. Work lost his King. Dummy proceeded to take the good 7 and 8 of Clubs. Mrs. Davis discarded the 3 and 4 of Spades; Mr. Wolfe the 8 of Diamonds and 2 of Hearts; Mr. Work the 9 and 10 of Diamonds.

Dummy then led the 7 of Spades; irs. Davis played the 9; Declarer delined the finesse, playing the King; Mr. Work played the 2.

Declarer, South, then led his Jack of Mamonds to put Mr. Work in, on the sumption that the latter held no leart to lead to his partner. If Mr. Work did hold a Heart, the lead of it would stop game; but otherwise, Mr. Work did hold a Heart, the lead of it would stop game; but otherwise, Mr. Work old the stop of Diamonds, Dummy its carded the 6 of Spades; Mrs. Davis he 10 of Spades.

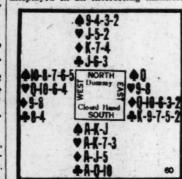

ded the 6 of Spades: Mrs. Davis of Spades.

Work, West, was then compelled id a Spade up to Declarer's Aceboth of which made. Mr. Wolfe for made three-odd at No Trump, as game on the hand, 30 points, 30 honor points for three Aces.

Contract bidding of the hand, sing to Mr. Work's analysis, would outh, one No Trump; West, pass; I, two Clubs; East, pass; South, No Trump. Morth's contract bid be very different from his pass in an Bridge, because of the fact that not players want to reach a game-declaration if the combined hands in one. Thus, in Contract, a strong with is shown over a No Trump floate strength in that suit—exact-

WORK ON BRIDGE

I once saw the following Bridge hand misplayed in an interesting manner.

When West won the third round of Hearts, he cashed his good Heart Ten and then led another Spade which South won (Declarer's sixth trick). Declarer then took in his three remaining Aces and made game; but he had a suspicion that he had not made the maximum possible from his hand and asked what I thought about it. THE ANSWER.

THE ANSWER.

When South won the first trick he should have led the Heart Trey to trick 2. With the hand played in this way, Dummy would have two entries—the Jack of Hearts and the King of Diamonds—if West have the Queen of Hearts. Then Dummy could have led Diamonds for the Ace-Jack finesse in Clerced Hand also Clubs for that Hearts. Then Dummy could have led Diamonds for the Ace-Jack finesse in Closed Hand, and also Clubs for that finesse. When leading clubs, the Jack should have been led and, unless the King covered, the Ten have been played from Closed Hand. Handled in this way Declarer would have made a Small Slam because he would have lost only one trick—the Queen of Hearts.

When playing No Trump and holding Ace-King with two or three others in one hand, and Jack with no other hand. When this finesse succeeded, he hand. And Jack with no other hand. cause it has so many uses, and because it always looks so smart.

So I have designed six of them for you in this week's illustrated leaflet, for which you may send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, and I designed them especially so they will not go out of style for years 'n years! House dresses, school dresses, vacation dresses, outing dresses, that's what they are. Smart, easy to make, and launderable, too.

New York, March 6, 1929.

N a recent number, the American Bar Association Journal wandered into the field of preventive medieard at 9 octoors, followed by a chold chat by Peggy Clarke, mana-of the station. e Carolinians Dance Orchestra and English court. In this court a large bouquet of flowers always sits on the bench between the judge and the pris-oner and witnesses. This custom is a general survival of an old notion that the prisoner at the bar was liable to infect the judge with jail fever. The flowers were placed before the judge to screen him from the dangerous emanation from the prisoner. The immediate cause of the practice was an epidemic which developed court attendants, lawyers, vitnesses and others in April, 1750. A Mr. Clarke was being tried at Newgate before Judge Foster. The case was a notable one and the courtroom was packed. Ten days after the trial a most packed. Ten days after the trial a most milagnant fever developed among the court attendants. Among the dead were: One judge, a cabinet minister, a mayor of London, an alderman, a sheriff, several of the jury, and more than 40 others. Out of this epidemic grew the custom of the bouquet on the bench.

The fever was supposed to be typhus fever. If the disease was typhus, it was spread by lice. Had every one in literature, was born this day, 1806.

The poet early displayed great precocity. She was very delicate. For loused, according to the method folseven years after she burst a blood veslowed in the army, the epidemic would sel, she was confined to a darkened never have occurred and the custom of room. Her zeal for writing never dimmed, however, and she continued to judge would never have originated. Even today there is a field for a policy of more bathing and fewer

Food and Bear Traps.

OING back into the history of the Northwest Indians, we find that they knew almost nothing about raising crops before the white men arrived. They took care of small patches of tobacco, but their vegetables had to be supplied from the wild sources of patters.

berries, gooseberries and crabsples were picked. The berries were cooked, dried and put away. When the time came to eat them they were soaked in water and covered with oil.

Northwest Coast Indians did not do nearly so much hunting as other tribes. Now and them a deer or mountain goat was shot with bow and arrow, but the chief purpose was to get the deer-skin for use in clothing and the goat wool for the weaving of blankets.

Bears were caught by means of traps. A clever affair was the spring trap. A stout sapling was bent over and fastened so that the top was close to the ground. A noose was attached to the end and a piece of neat was inid down as a bait. If the bear took the baft, the trap was spring and the noose closed around his nect. If he did not pull himself free before Indians came, he was killed with spears or arrows.

Deer flesh is never enteu in the Kwakiuti tribe. The Nootkas sometimes eat it, but if they do they are not supposed to eat salmon for s certain period. These customs date far back, and we may say that there is a "taboot against the eating of venison in the tribes mentioned.

JONES LAW CAUSES DOUBT ON FATE OF PENDING DRY CASES

Lack of Saving Clause in Act Cited by Lawyers as Men Get Heavy Penalties.

200 ACTIONS IN POLICE COURT MAY BE VOIDED

Appeal Taken Will Constitute Test: Prosecutor Invokes Statute of 1871.

The fate of approximately 200 cases of dry-law violations pending in the Police Court is in the air as a result of the enactment of the Jones liquor

Scores of attorneys contend the case should be thrown out of court because of failure to include a saving clause in the new law. The cases were filed under the old law and the new legisla-tion does not provide for retention of penalties of the old law. Its attorneys ld, thereby voiding the charges pend-

Hitt. in Police Court. prenounced severe sentences on William Deegan, Prancis Deegan and Clarence Myers on Ilquor charges growing out of the sensational Ambassador Oyster House raid last August. Whelen has declared his intention of taking the case to the District Court of Appeals. On the other hand, Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins contends that section 13 of the revised Federal Code, which has been in effect since February 25, 1871, protects the cases now pending in the sourt.

The code section, which has been upheld in numerous instances by high courts, provides that the "repeal of any statute shall not have the effect to release or extinguish any penalty, for the shall not have the effect to see or extinguish any penalty, forme of liability incurred unless the lifing act shall expressly provide." prosecutor contends for the purfof prosecution under the old act code states that the act "shall be lar to that which married the inaugural large.

We want to extend the committee to state, county and precinct groups, and we believe that in this way enforcement officials will have a degree of cooperation which they have never had in previous dry organizations. We do not intend to interfere with the worl of any organizations already in the field. but we hope to be the active link in helping officials enforce the law."

Animal Rescue League Gets Somebody's Goat

The Animal Rescue League succeeded

The report showed that the league collected during the month 205 dogs, 77 pupples, 233 cats, 133 kittens, 2 horses, 7 rabbits and 1 goat, a total of 658 animals. Of these, eleven dogs, two pupples, four cats and two kittens were placed in homes, and three dogs, one cat and one horse were returned to their owners.

The coroner issued a certificate of accidental death. Mrs. Maude E. Freeman, and it is landlady, found Stovall after a small boy living in the house had pushed open the door to the deceased's room. A window in the room was popened about 2 inches. The man, Mrs. Freeman said, had been ill for some time.

DRY COPERATION

In the Congress that has just died the proposal to increase the pay of employes who were alighted under the Welch salary act was smothered in conference, and the Dale-Lehlbach retirement bill was pocket-vetoed by former President Coolidge.

Chairman Lehlbach explained that his bill would be based on the recommendations contained in the final report of the Personnel Classification Board on its Nation-wide survey of conditions in private business. This survey was begun nearly a year ago, but the final report will not be submitted until the regular session of the Seventy-MAY HAVE CENTER HERE dirst Congress meets next December.
